Kim Jong-il Releases a Summer Blockbuster 1

Morning Edition, August 14, 2006 · Who rules the summer box office? Johnny Depp? Nicholas Cage? In North Korea, it's Kim Jong-il. State-run media there reports the dictator has produced a "masterpiece" (and they said that even before his film was released). It's about a student who overcomes hardships and, surprise, does it while being filled with pride about her country's military policy. The culture minister praises the film as "the fruit borne under the wise leadership of Kim Jong-il, a great master in art."
